Bleek Noir is the Alternative/Dark/Lo-Fi project of songwriter, musician, and recording artist Christopher J Fox.

Truly a signature sound, it's one that is dark, dramatic, head spinning, somewhat-angular and highly emotive. Reviews have praised Fox's lyrical prowess, and the power of Bleek Noir.

With fourteen releases under his belt, since the conception of Bleek Noir in 2017, Fox has amassed quite a discography of distinctive and compelling alternative music.

A moving and arresting musical experience for audiences of all kinds, the songwriting drags the mind to the unique world that Fox's music is born from.

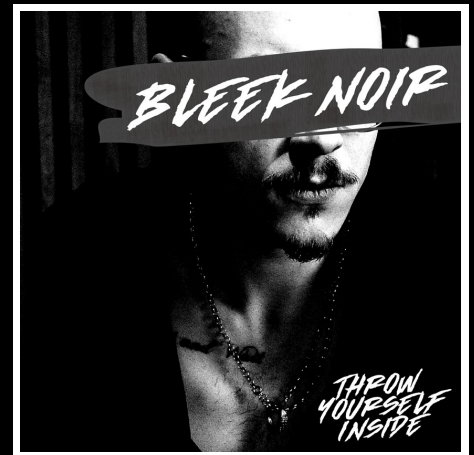

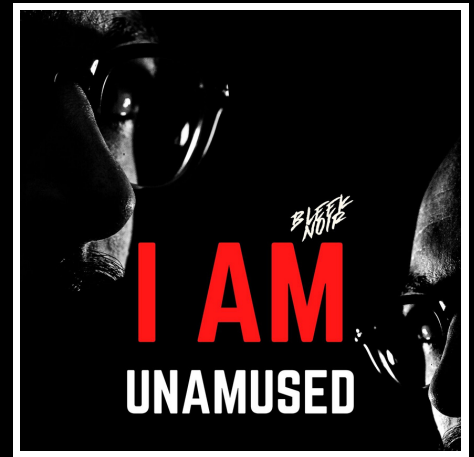

Constantly evolving, but remaining true to a style that is his alone, Fox is unwavering in his production of music that is as lyrical as it is acerbic, as dark and dramatic as it is uplifting, as obtuse as it is hooky, and created in exorcism.

Touring professionally in various guises in the past, those familiar with Fox's live work will know that his music's intensity is not exclusive to his recorded works.

August 1st 2020 will see the release of the second Bleek Noir EP of year, both of which were recorded during national lockdown. "Bite Thy Pigsty" is coming soon.

The new Bleek Noir EP "The Garden de Sade" is yet another masterpiece of Dark and broody fun. Dark and atonal, with mystery and shadows Bleek Noir has brought a Victorian Era and Nuevo Goth sound to the light of day. Imagine if Halloween had an emotional cry of love. - Indie Pulse Music Blog

Bleek Noir is a head-spinning cocktail that will shake-up music and provide it a rare fascination. - Music Musings & Such.

An advocate of the darker and more lugubrious aspects of life there's a rich vein of unsmiling vaudevillian splendour amongst the musical acrobatics. In the guise of Bleek Noir, Chris Fox continues his evolution as an alternative and unique presence. - Louder Than War Music Blog
